

Mapping the UP2YOUTH research field

Last Updated Friday, 03 July 2009

The 18 research centres involved in the UP2YOUTH project have produced three research maps to map the field of UP2YOUTH topics.

The purpose of this is to give an overview of research centres that are currently doing or recently have been carrying out research with a focus on the agency perspective in the youth field.

This list is not meant to be comprehensive, but rather the selection is meant to show who in the field is working on the crossroads of the different research angles that UP2YOUTH is all about: the transitions to work area with a special focus on young people with an ethnic minority or migrant background, youth participation and young people's transitions to parenthood - and all this under an agency perspective.

To access the maps simply follow the links:

-

Research map of transitions to work of young people with an ethnic minority or migration background

-

Research map of youth participation

-

Research map of transitions to parenthood